Danish quality – built to last

At OMMELIFT, quality is not just a promise – it is the very foundation of our company. Since 1906, we have been manufacturing top-class quality products. Over time, our focus has evolved from traditional machinery to specialising in lifts, and today, we are among the world's leading manufacturers of trailer-mounted and tracked lifts.

With in-house production in Denmark and a strong focus on innovation and durability, we deliver solutions that ensure high safety, minimal maintenance, and maximum uptime.

We create products that are built to last. Our lifts are designed to operate for decades – benefiting both the environment and your bottom line. Whether you run a rental business or need a safe and reliable solution for working at height, you can count on OMMELIFT.

For four generations, OMMELIFT has stood for robust, reliable, and sustainable solutions – and we proudly continue this tradition, delivering high-quality lifts to customers worldwide.

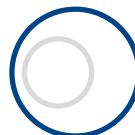

"OMMELIFT is an investment that pays off over time – long lifespan and high uptime make a difference to our business."

Safety in every detail

Quality isn't just about building a solid product – it's also about the service and support that come with it. At OMMELIFT, we manufacture most of our components in-house, ensuring fast access to spare parts, precision engineering, and consistent quality. This guarantees that our customers can always rely on their lifts to stay operational with maximum uptime.

We are more than just a supplier – we are a trusted partner, providing peace of mind through ongoing support and a high level of service. Our strong dealer network plays a key role in this, and we invest in training and education to ensure that both dealers and end users have the knowledge they need to get the most out of our products.

- New dealers receive hands-on training in Denmark, giving them a deep understanding of our lifts.
- When launching new products, we ensure that all dealers are fully up to date and equipped to provide expert advice and support.

For our customers, this means confidence at every stage – from choosing the right lift to maintenance and long-term support. OMMELIFT is more than a product – we are a complete solution.
